a Message

2002 proved to be a very big year for our Avila community. On July 16, we became a University, a distinction given to institutions with a Carnegie Foundation Classification of Master's I or higher. Our faculty, staff, students, and alumni enthusiastically endorsed our name change. Two celebrations marked the event and an Avila purple plum tree was planted in the quad to commemorate the occasion. With the name change comes added responsibility, and we accept the challenge to provide the best possible education to our students, now and in the future. As members of the Avila University family, we can all be proud that we continue to meet this challenge, led by the pioneering spirit of our founders, the Sisters of St. Joseph of Carondelet.

In 2002, we also experienced the sadness that comes from losing a devoted friend, and man of Avila, G. Richard Scott, who passed away March 26. Richard loyally served Avila for 38 years as a faculty member, as Vice President for Academic Affairs, and for the last fifteen years, as Director of Planned Giving. Richard's presence is greatly missed. A scholarship has been established in Richard's name and gifts to-date are over $21,000, making it possible for deserving and qualified students to experience an Avila education.

We are starting 2003 with the inaugural issue of the new Accent. We hope to bring you more in-depth news about campus events, faculty and student accomplishments, and most importantly, to help you, the alumni, stay connected with one another. You will be able to read alumni news in Accent's new "Connections" section. As in all families, sharing news is important, so please take the time to fill out the form on page 12 so that we may publish your news in the next issue.

In this debut issue you will also find "Accent on Avila" – short stories that will keep you up-to-date on what is happening on campus. You'll read news about people familiar to you like Srs. Olive Louise Dallavis and Ann Dominic Tassone, and you'll also see new names like Dr. Stephen Maynard Caliendo, Avila's Professor of the Year. You will read how proud we are of Dr. Stanley Banks and Dr. Carol Colburn for publication of their books, "On Alley Way" and "Spirited Lives," respectively. In this issue, we have also included the fiscal year 2001-2002 Honor Roll of Donors, an impressive list of alumni, faculty, staff, friends, and students who have financially expressed their support for Avila's value-based education. Thank you to everyone for your gifts.

Please take the time to enjoy your new Accent and send us your comments. This is your magazine. We seek and value hearing from you.

Best Wishes for a Healthy New Year,

Thomas F. Gordon, J.D. LL.M.

Poet-in-Residence

Instructor of English at Avila University, and a Kansas City, MO, native, Stanley Banks is a recognized poet and winner of the 1981 Langston Hughes Prize for his book of poems, On Alley Way.

Raised in a poor inner city family, Banks considers teaching at Avila his dream occupation and "a fulfillment of the American potential," and honors "working with and instructing a diverse group of bright students." His recently published article in the Kansas City Star, "Out of the Blues," remembers and gives recognition to the tragedy on September 11.

Banks says that these events forced him to think about who he is as an African American citizen. He believes, "America is the land of big hearts and great potential." This distinguished gentleman was also a 1989 National Endowment for the Arts fellowship recipient. AU

2002 Avila University Professor of the Year

Stephen Maynard Caliendo, Ph.D., Assistant Professor of Political Science, was honored by Missouri Governor Bob Holden during the 2002 Governor's Award for Excellence in Teaching luncheon on December 4. Dr. Caliendo was selected for the award because of his effective teaching and advising, service to the university community, and his commitment to high standards of excellence and success in nurturing student achievement. AU

Srs. Ellen Marie Gavin, Marie Georgette Eschbacher, Marie Tucker, and Teresa Zilch retire

The Avila University community was sad to see the departure of Sisters Ellen Marie Gavin, Marie Georgette Eschbacher, Marie Tucker, and Teresa Zilch in the spring of 2002. All four sisters made the move to St. Louis, where they will reside at the Nazareth Living Center, the retirement community of the Sisters of St. Joseph of Carondelet.

The Sisters will not only be missed for their more than 70 combined years of service to Avila, but also for their contribution to the character and the atmosphere of the University.

Sister Marie J. Harris, Provost and Vice President for Academic Affairs, said, "Their presence on campus reflected the importance of caring and commitment, and they were a model of that for the students." AU

Steer Dinner — An Evening of Simple Elegance

Five hundred guests dined on mouth-watering filet mignon and swing-danced to the Steve Miller KC Band at Steer Dinner 2002, "An Evening of Simple Elegance." Serena Aernie, Director of Development, said, "We raised over $327,000 for student scholarships thanks to the generosity and support of our event sponsor, Mary Beth Meyers, our corporate sponsor Bank of America, and the many friends of Avila who donated auction items, sponsored tables, and purchased tickets to the event. Because of their support, we raised 33% over last year's event."

Steer Dinner 2003, "Grade A+ Evening," will be held at the Fairmont Hotel, March 29. For more information, please contact Serena Aernie, 816-501-2450. AU

Colburn and Smith Publish Spirited Lives

In 1866, our country was starting to heal from the war between the States. Many people were trying to return to a sense of normalcy after seeing and hearing about too much death and destruction of their families, friends, and neighbors. One group of extraordinary nuns journeyed to Kansas City to help in the healing process. These women came to establish the first formal elementary school in our city. The St. Teresa's Academy, led by Sister Francis Joseph Ivory, welcomed children into its doors in early 1866. That was just the beginning of the impact Catholic nuns had on our society and in our culture.

Spirited Lives is a book that recounts how nuns influenced the shaping of America as we know it today. The book was co-written by two professors at Avila University, Carol Colburn and Sister of St. Joseph Martha Smith. Spirited Lives' documentation begins in 1836, by following the Sisters of St. Joseph's journey from St. Louis to the rest of the United States, including Kansas City.

Spirited Lives tells how the sisters helped finance and administrate schools, hospitals, and orphanages throughout the United States until 1920. Carol Colburn concluded that following 1920, young women continued to choose the religious life, despite the changing views in the American culture about nuns. AU

Avila College became Avila University on July 16, 2002, with the unveiling of the new sign and logo. Three hundred guests were greeted by President Tom Gordon, Bishop Raymond Boland, Mayor Kay Barnes, and Jackson County Executive Kathryn Shields.

A second celebration for students, faculty and staff was held September 13, 2002. A tree was planted to commemorate the event and everyone was invited to participate in the planting.

The name change was approved by the Avila Board of Trustees, the Jackson County Circuit Court, and the Missouri Secretary of State. "We believe our university status requires an even greater commitment to excellence in education, as well as a greater commitment to the Kansas City community," said President Gordon. AU

Mock Trial Team Debuts with a Sixth Place Finish at Nationals

"When students look back and point to one life changing experience while in college, they almost always reveal that they never learned like this before," remarks Stephen Maynard Caliendo, Ph.D., referring to Avila's award-winning Mock Trial Team that worked their way to a sixth place finish in the Parker Division at the First Annual American Intercollegiate Mock Trial Tournament. The tournament was held in St. Petersburg, Florida. Avila received an invitation after doing well at the Regional competition in Topeka earlier in the year.

Mock Trial is a revitalized program that Caliendo has taught before at Purdue University and the University of Missouri-St. Louis. "This program is a vital tool to help students learn critical thinking, public speaking, and organizational skills that occur in an intimate setting with attorneys, professors, and each other," Caliendo said.

Forty teams participated in two divisions of 20. The sixth place finish was an extraordinary accomplishment for Avila's team. Only two of the six students who participated had ever heard of a mock trial before last September.

The team of Melissa Fleming, Jessica Agnelly, Sara Alarabi, Heather Gregory, Margaret Henry, Aimee McLandsborough, Kelli Rice, and Angie Weatherford put in many long hours. Derek Moorhead, an Avila alumnus and adjunct instructor, volunteered his time as the attorney-coach of the team.

In addition to the team award, Fleming received an Outstanding Witness Award.

Caliendo asserts that, "Mock Trial lends itself to an examination of the law from different perspectives, making it an essential program at the University level to help students learn these important skills through the lens of the law and the trial system." AU

Holocaust in History and on Stage

"Avila was right up there competing with the top schools in the nation: New York University, University of North Carolina-Chapel Hill, Roger Williams University in Rhode Island, the University of Notre Dame, the University of Chicago, the University of Lublin in Poland, and the list goes on," remarks Dr. Charlene Gould, regarding her fellowship at the Summer Institute on the Holocaust and Jewish Civilization at Northwestern University in Chicago.

Northwestern University is one of the foremost institutions to study the Holocaust in the nation. "Top scholars from all over the world are flown in to teach this academic seminar starting in the roots of Judaism. This was not just about Nazis. It was about understanding the psyche of perpetrators, bystanders, victims, and challenging educators and researchers to do justice to the memory of this horrific event," said Gould.

Twenty-five privileged fellows were chosen out of hundreds of international applicants to this prestigious program to pass on this legacy. "It is a real prize to get a fellowship; it gives the instructor added credibility in the classroom," said Gould.

Avila is fortunate to have two fellows graduate from this program, Dr. Gould and Dr. Jeffrey Myers, who attended the institute in the summer of 2000.

Dr. Myers and Dr. Gould co-teach "Holocaust in History and on Stage." The course was the subject of discussion of both summer institutes and received very favorable reviews by leading scholars and educators of Holocaust studies. AU

Avila Professor Spends His Summer Helping Others

Every summer, Patrick Kopp, Asst. Professor of Computer Science, takes a group of students from his church on a mission trip. This year the group headed to Pipestem, West Virginia, where the six youths and five adults battled wasps, bees, and rainstorms to repair a home for a needy family. "Personally, I have not found anything to compare to the feeling I had when we all stood together looking at the 'new' house," Kopp said. AU

Avila Alums Enjoy New Perks of Membership

Avila alumni will enjoy new benefits thanks to Alumni Director Morten Klinte.

The new Alumni Athletic League has been established. Alumni who apply will receive membership cards that will grant them use of the Avila athletic facilities for weight training purposes, as well as involvement in the Alumni sports leagues. Membership will also be available to friends of Avila students, staff, and the local community. There is no initiation fee for membership, however, a minimal monthly fee may be charged. "We want to invite Avila alumni back on campus, offering them an additional connection to the school," said Klinte.

The Avila Alumni Mentoring Program kicks off in February. This program will offer alumni the opportunity to get involved with students who have majors in their particular fields of employment. It will allow students to get career advice and to network in professional arenas.

Other programs in the works are the Alumni Association Benefit Package, the Avila Credit Card, and a license plate program. All of these concepts have been brought to the Alumni Association Board and are now awaiting their implementation into Avila's future.

For more information about these, or any other alumni programs, please contact Morten Klinte at 816-501-2422. AU

Leaping Lizards!

Avila students recently returned from Grenada where they participated in a National Science Foundation-funded summer program entitled "Research Experiences for Undergraduates." The three weeks in Grenada were part of a rigorous 10-week workshop designed to encourage highly motivated students to pursue careers in science.

This year's project focused on the ecology of amphibians and reptiles. Students examined the interactions between two species of lizards on the grounds of the hotel where the group stayed during the trip. Catherine Bohnert, a junior at Avila, noted that, "In the very near future, most island populations of lizards will be living under such conditions." Dr. Robert Powell, Professor of Biology at Avila and Program Director, commented that, "Although most biologists are drawn to the few pristine areas that remain in the tropics, to better understand the influence of human development, we must learn more about how animals adjust to alterations of their habitats."

Pam Simmons, a senior Avila student, was part of a team that studied interactions between ground lizards and those that generally remain in trees, trying to determine if activity by the former limits feeding on the ground by the latter.

The VISION OF BEN MEADE

Dr. Benjamin Meade, Assistant Professor of Communication at Avila University, has been the center of a great deal of attention in the press after the release of his film "Vakvagany" (Dead End). Meade spent several weeks in Hungary making the movie which is described as "... a new, exciting, and provocative experience in the language of modern cinema" by avant-garde filmmaker Stan Brahkage. Meade has a faculty appointment at the University of Pécs in Pécs Hungary. Avila students have the unique experience of working with this inventive and dedicated filmmaker and instructor. Accent recently had the opportunity to interview Dr. Meade.

Accent: How has the success of your film affected the way you teach?

Dr. Meade: It changed my life and the way I teach. It forced me again to re-evaluate both. Although making Vakvagany was emotionally painful, I believe that I am a better mentor to my students as a result of the experience.

A: Were others at Avila involved in the film?

M: Dr. Dotty Hamilton and Susan Lawlor of the faculty, one student, and two alumni were involved. Their help was invaluable. I think it was a rewarding experience for them.

A: Recently, four students traveled to Hungary with you and taught film-making to Hungarian students. What insights do you think they gained?

M: They learned patience and tolerance by working with people who live quite differently. I think the students now have a better appreciation of what I do.

A: How does Avila's film program stack up against other institutions?

M: Avila has a gifted program. We are one of the few universities around that not only employs digital technology, but also works with motion picture film.

A: What do you hope your students will get out of your classes?

M: My goal is to continue to connect the mind and heart of my students allowing them to express themselves in their work. Critical thinking skills are paramount in real life and I believe that knowing one's self is imperative in the development of critical thinking skills.

A: As a successful experimental filmmaker, what do you think of today's movies?

M: Most are bankrupt of originality and ingenuity. Hollywood is in the unenviable position of merchandising rather than creating an artistic outlet.

A: You came to Avila from a successful background in the financial services business. How did that happen?

M: Several years ago, my brother died and I reevaluated my life and career. Back in the 70s, I received a film degree, but when I couldn't find a job out of college, I took a job in financial services. Coming to Avila changed and continues to change my life. I bring my life experiences into the classroom and am actively involved in what I teach. I think this brings a great deal of credibility to our program and the university as a whole.

A: What is your goal in working with Avila students?

M: I want our students to be better consumers of all media. A better understanding of how media affects our lives is crucial to good citizenship and stewardship.

BRICKS, MORTAR, AND A LEGACY

Avila University has always looked to alumni and friends in the community to help the growth of the school. This has never been more important or essential than when Avila moved to the outskirts of Kansas City in 1963. Due to the increase of enrollment, Avila needed a bigger campus to house the existing student population and to develop future plans to open full-time enrollment to men in 1969.

The campus move to the undeveloped edge of the city was made possible by a donation from Margaret O'Rielly '18, who holds the distinction of being the first graduate of the College of St. Teresa. O'Rielly left $200,000 in her estate to Avila in 1959. With this great gift, the school was able to purchase 50 acres and build the campus. At that time, the donation made by O'Rielly was the largest gift ever received; therefore the school wanted to honor her by naming the first building after her.

The second building erected was Blasco Hall, the administration building. It was also built in 1963, named after Alfred J. Blasco. Mr. Blasco was the first layman to be the chairperson of the Avila Board of Trustees. He was the father of Barbara Lowry, graduate of 1958. Mr. Blasco was the CEO of Interstate Securities.

In addition to donations from friends and benefactors, Avila also received funds from the United States Government to build three structures, Marian Center, Carondelet Hall, and Ridgway Hall.

Marian Center was named after Mary, the mother of God, and was finished in 1965. That same year, Carondelet Hall was finished and opened as a residence center. It is named after the Sisters of St. Joseph of Carondelet, who sponsor the university. The word Carondelet (pronounced ca-ron-de-let) was the name of the village outside of St. Louis where the Sisters of Saint Joseph first began their ministry in the United States.

The third structure built with government funds was Ridgway Hall, a residence center constructed in 1970. It was named to honor Marie Ridgway, a dear friend, philanthropist, and benefactor of the University. Marie had no ties to Avila as such, but donated because she wanted to help young people and her community.

Foyle Hall houses the chapel and the convent where a number of Avila Sisters of Saint Joseph reside. Built in 1967, Foyle Hall was named in honor of Rose Foyle. She was one of the original founders of the Scholarship Sponsors.

In 1973, Avila added yet another building to the campus, Hodes Education Center, named for Herman and KaRose Hodes. The Hodes family of ten children had five graduates of Avila: Genie Hodes '60, KaRose Hodes Ismert '48, Elizabeth Ismert '50, Martha Hodes '61, and Susan Hodes '72. The Hodes family was an excellent example of family life and love for children.

Kathleen Borserine made Borserine Center possible in 1974. Kathleen Borserine was a friend and benefactor of Avila. She was the aunt of five alumni. Borserine wanted to be part of the growing development of the school and was a member of the Scholarship Sponsors.

Another part of the Borserine Center is the Goppert Theatre, a state of the art "open thrust" theatre where a variety of plays are staged. Clarence Goppert, well-known Kansas City banker, and his wife, Vita Goppert, gave donations to the department to build the 500-seat capacity theatre. The Goppert families continue to be friends and philanthropists of the school.

Assistance and support from the community has always helped in advancing the growth of Avila. Anne Sarachon Hooley and Judge Henry Bundschu were very interested in aiding the school by adding a library. Anne Hooley was the founder of the Hooley School of Business for Women. Judge Henry Bundschu was a prominent attorney in Independence, Missouri. He was a great historian, and because Avila's campus is on the historic Santa Fe Trail, he wanted to help the school.

The Whitfield Center is located in the lower half of the Hooley-Bundschu library and is named for Dorothy Whitfield '55. The Whitfield Center is where the MBA classrooms are located along with the Thornhill Gallery, named after Edward Thornhill, benefactor and member of the Avila Board of Counselors. Dorothy Whitfield started her own business in medical technology and now resides in Arizona. She continues to be a strong supporter of Avila.

All that was missing from Avila was a fieldhouse and athletic complex. The Mabee Foundation awarded Avila $600,000 to build the fieldhouse. It was built in 1980 and had one of the best wood floors of any fieldhouse in the metropolitan area. The fieldhouse has recently undergone a significant expansion, adding an activity room, weight room, coaches' offices, and locker rooms.

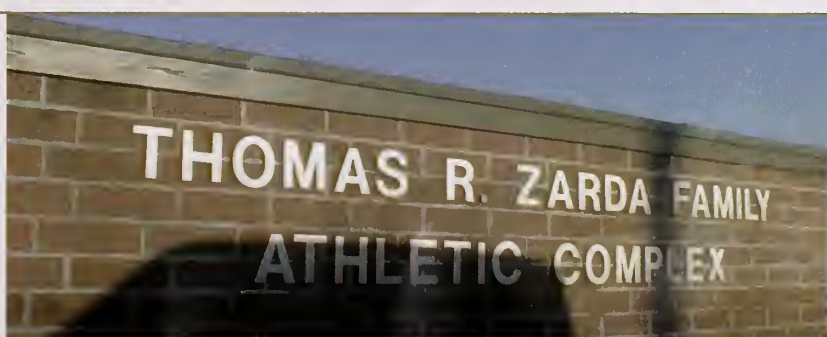

Along with the Mabee Fieldhouse, the Thomas R. Zarda Family Athletic Complex was added and built in 1991. The Zarda family founded the Zarda Dairy Company. Thomas Zarda was the second layman to be Chairman of the Board of Trustees and a very good friend of Avila. The Athletic Complex has soccer, baseball, and softball fields.

In 1992, Avila added the Dallavis Center. The Dallavis Center was named in honor of Sister Olive Louise Dallavis, but she would not accept that. Instead, the building is in honor of her family. Sister Olive Louise's parents were Italian immigrants who had five children. The building was to honor their love for the fine arts that they passed on to their children. The building is where the Art Center, Communication Department, TV Studio, the student newspaper office, and classrooms are located.

The most current addition to the Avila campus is the Schlumpberger Facility, which is for maintenance and grounds keeping equipment. Arthur G. Schlumpberger worked for Massman Construction. Massman built the first two buildings on the Avila campus. Schlumpberger was the master carpenter on those buildings. He was hired by Avila in 1964 to maintain the upkeep of the buildings. Art retired in 2000, but continues to support Avila.

As Avila University continues to grow, more buildings will be added, bearing the names of those men and women who support and believe in the future of the school. Avila's buildings tell a history, one that is as strong as the bricks of which they are made. AU

Eagle Football Scores With Four Wins in Season

The Eagles posted a big win to start the 2002 season — a dramatic 28-27, double-overtime thriller over Kansas City-area rival William Jewell in Liberty. There were three more big victories to follow (at Culver-Stockton, at home against David Garner, #30, goes over the top against Lindenwood.

Lindenwood, and on the road at Graceland), but the excitement of that opening-night win is something the Eagle fans, coaches and players will not soon forget.

"Our players learned this season that we can compete with anyone in this conference, which is one of the best in the NAIA," said Tim Johnson, head football coach.

The Eagles could actually have shocked Heart of America Conference (HAAC) observers even more by winning a few close games. Johnson's team had playoff-bound Benedictine down, 7-3, late in the third quarter before losing, and held late fourth-quarter leads over Evangel and Central Methodist.

The season came to a close on Nov. 16, with a loss to 10th-ranked MidAmerica Nazarene in Kansas City. Despite the final curtain coming down in a disappointing fashion, Johnson and his team remained hugely optimistic about 2003 and beyond.

"We accomplished what we wanted to this season," said Johnson of his young team, which finished with a mark of 4-6 in the tough HAAC. "We started 18 sophomores and 3 freshmen, so we have a great nucleus coming back for two more seasons. This off-season is going to be very important for our program."

"Our hope is that another year of maturity and commitment will make us harder to beat late in the game when we have the lead," said Johnson. "There is no substitute for experience."

Individually, the Eagles showed some developing stars in 2002, particularly on offense. Sophomores Rick Cooper (WR), Ahmad Ashkar (RB) and Kevin Furdurer (RB) combined to produce 2,637 yards and 23 TD's between them — that kind of production from the sophomore class will have the Eagle staff smiling all winter.

The kicking game should be a definite strength over the next two years, as well. Sophomore Massimo Scaccia kicked 12 field goals, including bombs from 52 and 55 yards. He kicked six of more than 40 yards, and hit 23 of 24 PAT attempts. In addition, freshman punter Matthew Witcher led the HAAC in punting, averaging 38.1 yards per boot.

On defense, the sophomore class again led the way, with strong safety Leonard Casey leading the team in tackles (94), followed by linebacker Kris Peterson (89).

"We're not there yet," said Johnson of his up-and-coming team, "but we're close." AU

Avila's Dance Team Places 3rd at National Competition

The Dance Team performs for home basketball games.

The Avila University Dance Team has quickly developed into one of the premier college dance teams in the United States. The Dance Team performs at Avila campus events and intercollegiate football and basketball contests. They are also competitive on the national level.

In each of the three years of their existence, the Dance Team has qualified to compete at the Universal Cheer and Dance Association's National Championships held in January at Walt Disney World in Orlando, Florida. Not only have the Avila dancers competed nationally, they found success as they advanced to the finals of the National Championships in 2001 (7th place), 2002 (2nd place), and 2003 (3rd place), competing against dance teams from a wide variety of colleges and universities from around the country.

Under the direction of head coach Cindy Freeman, the Dance Team features many studio-trained dancers with both competitive and professional experience.

Avila Cheerleaders Improve by Leaps and Bounds

The Avila cheer squad mounts an impressive pyramid for football fans.

In just its second year, the Eagle cheer squad has quickly become an intercollegiate program of which Avila University can be proud. The squad has more than doubled in numbers this year, growing from a group of six in 2001-2002, to a group of fourteen in 2002-2003. The Eagles cheer at both home and away intercollegiate football and basketball events. Performances include not only sideline cheers but collegiate level stunts, pyramids, and tumbling.

The cheer program took a giant step forward this year as the Eagles were recognized as one of the top collegiate cheer squads in the Midwest at the UCA College Summer Camp in Springfield, MO. The Eagles made a clean sweep of the camp, collecting first place finishes in Fight Song, Cheer, and Sideline categories. They also received special recognition as the "Most Collegiate" cheer squad. In addition, four of the Avila University cheerleaders qualified to compete in the Partner Stunt Competition at the Collegiate National Championships sponsored by the Universal Cheer and Dance Association held in January at Walt Disney World in Orlando, FL.

Under the direction of head coach Jason Sack, the Eagles have developed an intensive and comprehensive training program which includes physical conditioning and stunt development.

The Avila Cheerleaders' goals are to support the interscholastic sports programs and to promote school spirit as a whole. They strive to be "good-will ambassadors" of the University and of the community through the involvement in and promotion of programs and activities. They work together to attain excellence in their performance with the ultimate goal of competition at the national level. AU

Women's Soccer Improves Record

The Avila University women's soccer program took the field with a new look for the 2002 campaign. Under the direction of new head coach Paul McNally, the Eagles mixed several returnees with a host of newcomers and improved upon last year's 3-11 season mark, finishing with an overall record of 5-12 on the season. AU

Men's Soccer Plagued with Injuries

The Avila University men's soccer team entered the 2002 season with a great deal of anticipation. Coming off a solid 12-3-2 record during the 2001 season, the Eagles expected that their senior leadership, and another solid recruiting class, would lead them to great success in the Heart of America Conference. Beset by injuries, the Eagles didn't have the season they desired, but battled through adversity and a tough schedule to an 8-8-1 mark overall, narrowly missing an NAIA Region V playoff spot. AU

Volleyball Season Ends with a Win

Avila spikes the ball for a point against Jewell.

Under the direction of first-year head coach Brett Talcott, the Avila University women's volleyball team was in a rebuilding mode this season, finishing the year with an overall record of 3-19, including an exciting season-ending victory over Central Methodist.

The squad improved throughout the year, and the play of a number of newcomers gives Coach Talcott and the Eagles the hope of a bright future ahead.

Talcott will become a full-time member of the Avila University athletic department in January as he assumes the additional head coaching duties of the newly created men's volleyball program. AU

FROM THE ALUMNI PRESIDENT

a Message

Greetings!

Fall 2002 at Avila proved to be an exciting place to be. On September 5th, the students, administration, faculty and staff joined together to celebrate Avila's transition to the status of university. This change in status signals a commitment by the Avila community to continued growth and leadership within the greater Kansas City area. Prominent community leaders such as Kansas City, Missouri Mayor Kay Barnes, Jackson County Executive Kathryn Shields, Mary Kay Liston, CSJ, and Bishop Raymond Boland participated in the official dedication ceremony for Avila University on July 16th. Their presence and recognition of Avila is a strong testimonial to both its rich history and promising future.

Fall sports brought together students, faculty, friends, and alumni. The Avila Eagle football team began its second season with a heart-stopping double overtime victory over conference rival William Jewell College. Head coach Tim Johnson, his staff and the entire team deserves our congratulations for their tireless competitive spirit as they continue to build this fine program. Our soccer and volleyball teams, as well as the cheer and dance squads, also provided exciting competitions. We are very fortunate to have the opportunity to experience the enchantment of true amateur competition in a wide array of sports. Watch 2003 for the new Women's Golf Program and the Men's Volleyball team.

Homecoming 2002 was a fun-filled weekend both on and off campus. Some of the highlights alums enjoyed were the bonfire/pep rally, the tail-gate party, the football game against Lindenwood, the dinner theater presentation of "Arsenic and Old Lace," the Homecoming Mass followed by the Recognition Brunch, and the women's and men's soccer games. Many of you brought your families to these events and enjoyed the beauty of the campus in the fall season.

Last year's Steer Dinner afforded the University the occasion to raise funds to begin a Mentoring Program for its students. This exciting program, which will begin February 8, 2003, will allow sophomores and juniors to develop relationships with alumnae working in the career fields they are studying. The Mentoring Program is another example of how Avila continues to strive to enhance the educational experience of its students. I am sure that the experience for the alumnae will be equally gratifying as it allows them another avenue to connect with campus life. Please contact Morten Klinte, Director of Alumni Relations at 816-501-2422 if you are interested in more information about this program.

The Avila University community is active and viable. Make the time to be involved this year and rediscover the excitement.

Thank you for your interest and attention.

Sincerely,

Greg Lever

STEER DINNER 2003

Join us March 29, 2003, at the beautiful Fairmont Hotel for a Grade A+ Evening. Dine on melt-in-your-mouth prime filet mignon, dance to the tunes of the Steve Miller KC Band, and support Avila's value-based education by bidding on one-of-a-kind auction items. Do not miss this special evening. For more information, please call Serena Aernie, Director of Development at 816-501-2450 or visit us on the Web at www.Avila.edu.
